Impact stories

Story One - CV preparation immediately before release

Background

Shortly before release a prison-based DWP advisor suggested that prisoner Mr. W should prepare a CV to support job applications.

Solution

The prison issued a Coracle Chromebook to Mr. W who was able to prepare a professionally formatted CV in his cell without impacting his kitchen work or him needing access to an education department computer.

Impact

Mr W used the Chromebook to draft and refine his CV in his own time. The prison printed hard copies for Mr W of his own CV to carry out of the prison. By syncing the devices, Coracle shared an electronic version of the CV with the prison that could be shared with Mr. W, the DWP and potential employers.

I would like to thank the Coracle team and the developers of this application and congratulate on a job well done! I would like to hope that this would be implemented across the prisons sector.

I am sure as well as myself that many others will appreciate using the application and most of all it will benefit us all in our journey to employment.

"...offenders in their cell can take advantage of technology to take a bit of control and responsibility for their life. To be masters of their own destiny, even in the institutional setting of a prison, and start preparing themselves."

Story Two - Supporting a vulnerable prisoner in a successful parole application

Background

Mr R was an education mentor serving an indeterminate sentence and living on a vulnerable prisoners' wing.

Solution

In the run up to his parole application, the prison issued Mr. R with a Coracle Chromebook, pre-loaded with self-guided employability and personal development eLearning. After completing the initial modules he became increasingly engaged and went on to successfully complete 18 different modules from his cell.

Impact

The prisoner highlighted his use of the Chromebook and the evidence (certificates) generated on it to support his successful parole application. Mr. R was released on license to return to his family.

"The Chromebook has been great and a big help in supporting my parole application. It's not just the education but some of the other materials are really good. Many of the boys would really be interested in some of the films and TED talks which I found useful."
